

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
CONTACT: Susan Murrow
(410) 744-1032
smurrow@believeintomorrow.org

Stacy London, host of TLC's What Not to Wear BELIEVES in Baltimore-based Believe In Tomorrow National Children's Foundation

Stacy London, host of TLC's What Not to Wear and Style Correspondent for NBC's TODAY Show, will host Baltimore-based Believe In Tomorrow's 27th Annual Benefit & Auction on Saturday, October 3, from 7:00 - 11:00 PM, at Belfast Manor (15316 Priceville Rd.) in Sparks, MD. The event will feature a live & silent auction, dine around, cocktails and music. Tickets are $100.00. Dress is Business Casual. For a listing of auction items, to purchase tickets and for more information log on to www.believeintomorrow.org/benefit

Stacy London is one of America's premiere style experts, helping women to boost their confidence by creating and celebrating their personal style. She joined TLC in 2002 as one of the original hosts of What Not to Wear after years of styling experience in fashion editorial for such publications as American Vogue and Mademoiselle. She has worked with celebrities such as Kate Winslet and Katie Holmes and consulted for designers such as Vivienne Tam and Rebecca Taylor.

Guests will have the opportunity to bid on an extensive menu of unique auction items including the following:

- A Fashion Consultation in New York with Stacy London, one of America's premiere style experts.
- Lunch with Daniel Mark Epstein award-winning poet and author of The Lincolns: Portrait of a Marriage, at a Baltimore restaurant.
- Wine tasting, sampling and tour for 12 guests of scenic Woodhall Vineyard, a boutique winery, just north of the Gunpowder River in Baltimore County.
- A VIP Day at Oriole Park at Camden Yards: Four Diamond Seats, VIP Parking, meet & greet with players and sports announcers.
- A behind the scenes tour of the National Aquarium in Baltimore for six guests, hosted by Philippe Cousteau, Co-founder and President of Earthecho International and grandson of the legendary Jacques Cousteau.
- Exclusive tour for four of the newly renovated Ford's Theatre Historic Site, including on-stage, the Museum and the opportunity to step inside Lincoln's box.
- Dinner for four at Gertrude's, Owner/Chef John Shields' restaurant at the Baltimore Museum of Art.
- Two 2 hour Flying Trapeze Classes from the Trapeze School New York, in DC.
- Joe DiMaggio memorabilia, including individually framed autographed baseball cards.
- A complementary membership at the Founder-level to the Foundation for the National Archives. Included is a private tour of the National Archives Experience.

and MANY MORE EXCITING ITEMS.

Believe In Tomorrow National Children's Foundation (www.believeintomorrow.org) provides exceptional long term hospital and respite housing for families with critically ill children. The Catonsville-based foundation is the exclusive provider of pediatric hospital housing for the Johns Hopkins Children's Center