BELIEVE IN TOMORROW READIES TO ROCK THE HOUSE
Canton Party will Benefit Critically Ill Children, Hospital Housing

Baltimore – Always a lively party, guests will gather in the Canton neighborhood to bid, sip, dine and dance at Believe In Tomorrow’s annual Rock the House, Saturday, March 7, to benefit the foundation’s hospital housing programs.

The party kicks-off at 7 p.m. at the Du Burns arena, home to the Baltimore Blast. The Real Geniuses, a popular Baltimore-based 80s cover band, will keep the house rocking through live and silent auctions until 11:30 p.m.

The popular orange crush cocktail, mixed by Nacho Mama’s own Patrick “Scunny” McCusker, will set the bar (literally) for the evening’s food and drink. The spread features complimentary food and beverages from Fins, Gin Mill, Portside Tavern and Kali’s Court.

The fundraising goal for this event is $50,000 to benefit Believe In Tomorrow’s hospital housing programs: the Believe in Tomorrow Children’s House at Johns Hopkins and the Believe in Tomorrow Children’s House at St. Casimir, which lies just around the corner from the venue. The foundation would like to thank this year’s title sponsor: Baltimore’s 1st Mariner Arena. MyCity4Her.com will serve as a media sponsor.

Believe In Tomorrow National Children’s Foundation provides exceptional hospital and respite housing services to critically ill children and their families. The Foundation believes in keeping families together during a child’s medical crisis, and that the gentle cadence of normal family life has a powerful influence on the healing process.
